POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

A major factor contributing to the plague of shortages now afflicting the American people, and seriously endangering successful conduct of the war, it is becoming plainer day by day, is that politicians with little capacity for anything but politics, and social reformers, wholly unable to cope with such practical problems as production and distribution, are still in command of many of the strategic posts in war-time Washington.

While the President has drafted outstanding executives from business and industry for some of the key jobs in his war administration, the fact remains that many of the most important departments dealing with problems of manpower, agricultural production and labor relations are still in weak hands, with the result that confusion has piled on confusion and shortages and disruptions have been .created where none need have been.

Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, and Clifford Townsend, chief of food production, to name just a few, are among top-ranking officials whom both Congress and the Nation are viewing with increasing dissatisfaction—and it is highly probable that heads will start to fall in the near future, despite President Roosevelt's traditional reluctance to oust men and women who have been members of his official family.

Inability to rid themselves of their political philosophy of the depression decade—when "plowing under," paying farmers not to plant and paying labor more to produce less were accepted policies of their departments — has been one of the shortcomings of many such officials who came into public life during the social reform era. After years spent in advocating government paternalism, with doles and subsidies as a substitute for production and private enterprise, the sudden transition to a period when production and more production became the urgent, desperate need of the Nation left such officials floundering on an uncharted sea with no compass to guide them.

And born of that floundering have been ceiling prices which did not cover farmer's costs of production; high wage scales in others, resulting in the migration of workers to the better-paying jobs and the crippling of industries which they left. Out of the same condition, too, have been born disruptions in war industries, with labor leaders publicly defying the decrees of both government and military officials.

The most serious shortage in the Nation, just now, is a shortage of able, experienced executives in Washington—men capable of directing the highly technical and difficult job of production and distribution. That shortage is at the root of many of the other shortages and there are hopeful signs that Congress recognizes it and intends to do something about it.

Kiwanis Club to Sponsor Bond Dinner April 9

A project that has been under consideration for some time was announced as ready for action—A Victory Bond Dinner for the Campbell community, sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

Admission to the dinner will be $20.00 per person, which includes $18.75 for a $25.00 bond and the dinner, which is open to the public.

The affair will be held Friday, April 9, at 6:30 p. m. in the Campbell Grammar school cafeteria, and is limited to 125, which is all that can be accommodated.

On payment of the $20 at the Campbell Water company office with the names to appear on the bond, a receipt will be given together with a ticket for the dinner, and at the dinner the bonds will be presented. Reservations close April 6.

Boy Scouts and Kiwanians Hear Talk by Executive

O. B. Mathews, Boy Scout executive of the Santa Clara Council, presented a straight from the shoulder talk to the Kiwanis club at its Tuesday meeting, taking as his topic the "Obligations of the Community to the Youth."

Mathews stated, "The Kiwanis club represents an influence on community problems." He also spoke on "The Forgotten Frontiers," among them, integrity, courage, peace and spiritual virility.

Adults have more responsibility on behalf of youth than ever before, he said, due to present conditions.

Boy Scouts in uniform were present to hear Mathews talk.

Antone Ferro was chairman of the day.

Lieut.-Gov. Earl W. Harris gave a short inspirational talk in conjunction with his official visit to the club, and also addressed the directors in a short session after the meeting.

An announcement was made that International President Fred G. McAlister of London, Ontario, Canada, will visit the Oakland club on Monday, March 29.

Maurice Moore reported that the Campbell Observation Post had received its 100 per cent rating for the fourth time, in spotting planes.

Next Tuesday Frank Abernathy, secretary of the Santa Clara County Milk Dealers association will speak on "A government controlled industry in this day of free enterprise." Ray Mathis will wield the gavel on this occasion.

SOLICITORS AT WORK ON RED CROSS DRIVE

Many of the solicitors for Campbell's Red Cross quota are already visiting the homes in their respective territories. As Red Cross contributions are cash and not pledges, every one is urged to decide upon his gift and lay it aside to be ready when the solicitor calls.

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy and Mrs. F. A. Jacobson have been arranging canvassers and allotting territory for the Campbell district, outside of the Cambrian area where Mrs. Clarence Fagalde is in charge.

The War Fund needed to carry on the many activities of the American Red Cross and be prepared for disasters in our own country is $125,000,000.

Campbell's minimum has been set at $1500, but more is needed. Part of the funds collected are used at home when necessary to care for service men's families until allotments arrive; to contact men and relatives if troubles befall and for other services. The great need, of course, is to help the men in service in hundreds of ways.

GREAT AMERICAN NIGHTMARE

According to a survey a few days ago, income tax paying time was over for only about 60 per cent of California tax payers, the lowest average in years for so late in the period. Many, tax officials predicted, were due to spend long and weary hours standing in line during the final rush and others were certain to face delinquent penalties and interest on first quarter payments unmet by the deadline date, March 15.

Returns accelerated during the past few days and most people have awakened by now from the Great American Nightmare of return blanks, surtaxes, earned income and wraith-like deductions — gaunt perhaps, and haggard from the ordeal but proud to have it behind them.

Those still asleep—new taxpayers unfamiliar with the routine, those working long hours and bucking slow transportation, and perennial procrastinators—are due for a chill awakening by the Internal Revenue agents readying now to crack down with penalties for such failure.

"THE GOING WILL BE TOUGHER"

For its mercy crusade in war time, the Red Cross needs 125 million dollars and will be working for the remainder of March to raise the funds.

If there were any question that the work of the organization were not worth the sum, the pleas of General Eisenhower, Allied Commander in North Africa, and of Adminal Nimitz, Pacific Fleet Commander, should answer it.

Both, as leaders of American sons in battle, should know. Said Nimitz in a recent radio address: "We have turned back the enemy in the South Pacific. From now on the going will be tougher. Your contribution to the Red Cross is a direct contribution to the spirit and morale of our fighting forces."

Said Eisenhower: "The soldier in the trenches or lying sick and wounded in a hospital is more comforted by the attentions the Red Cross is able to give him than by anything else we can do for him."

Letters from the boys themselves indicate that wherever battle lines are drawn they have come to look for the Red Cross insignia near-by. To them it means home. To them it is reassurance that the concepts of mercy and human decency are too strong to be overthrown even by the fury of total war.

The Red Cross deserves the aid of every American for every American has a stake in the principles for which it stands.

AXIS RUMORS

The OWI traced to Axis broadcasts the panic buying of clothes by Americans during recent weeks. The buying cleaned out women's suits and the hangers in men's stores were stark. A big New York firm laid a bet of $5000 against itself that clothes rationing would not come in 1943. "Our best information from Washington, as well as our own sources of information, bring us definitely to this conclusion," they announced in a newspaper advertisement. If they lose, they mean to divide the sum of their bet among the Red Cross, U. S. O., and Greater New York Fund. They won't lose, unless buyers continue to lose their heads.

36 HOURS

Today every great city of the earth can be reached by air within thirty-six hours.

Today the centers of all civilization are massed a short thirty-six hours from enemy planes, from the shrill scream of dive bombers, from the moaning roar of block busters, from the thud of machine-gun lead, from clouds of gas and fire from the sky.

Last night, people went about the business of living as usual. Then came a raid. Tomorrow morning—broken wreckage where the civic center stood; a heap of rubble that was your church. Blister gas—injured children, orphaned. The old folks tottering homeless and bewildered amongst awful ruins.

And yet there are those who still speak of isolation for America. There are those who think only of winning a war—and nothing—nothing at all of the Peace to come.

Thirty-six hours now. But tomorrw — how many minutes?

The time is long past when we can think only of victory—a victory that must be ours. But it will be weak and shallow and stupid unless our minds are ready for the Peace.

Think, Americans! Think, study, read, and talk of the Peace to come. Be prepared to judge and decide intelligently that that Peace may be rooted deep in wisdom from the lessons of the past, that it may stand as a bulwark for all time against a horror and agony and Hell that will be minutes — not hours — from the children of tomorrow.

Remember this—our soldiers die in vain unless the Peace, for which they die, endures.

HOW TO "SPEND" POINTS

Here's a way to spread your point "spending" as evenly as possible over the full month of March so you won't run short toward the end of the month: Divide March into four shopping periods — March 1 through 8 (eight days); March 9 through 16 (eight days); March 17 through 23 (seven days); March 24 through 31 (eight days).

If the 48 point-per-person allotment is used evenly over these periods, the rate of spending in each period by families of from two to eight persons works out in 12-point multiples. For two in the family spend 24 points per shopping period; for three 36 points; four, 48 and so on.

"LET GEORGE DO IT"

"Let George do it" evidently applies to the worthy King George of England. He has become a part-time unpaid worker in a war factory. Two evenings a week, he stands at a bench turning out precision parts for RAF guns. He clocks in at 6 p. m. wearing overalls, and leaves about 8:30. Other members of the royal staff are doing the same thing. Washington, D. C., please note!

PAGING ST. PATRICK

Needed: A modern St. Patrick to drive the Axis snakes out of Europe into the sea!

The legends about this Irishman of the fourth century are myriad. He had only to walk along a road—and the earth shook — and his enemies would be snatched up by invisible hands out of his onward path.

But we know he did take Latin to Ireland—so much enjoyed by the Irish for both sacred and profane writing! He did establish Christianity on the green isle. He overthrew the pagan idols that har flourished till his day.

His birthday, on March 17, is one of the great Irish festivals. His countrymen are glad to be rid of the snakes and the idols!

We have come a long way from fairy tales, in later centuries. But we might believe them again if someone like good St. Patrick should suddenly rid the face of Europe and Asia of the plague of totalitarian locusts—and overthrow the pagan idolatries implicit in both Shintoism and German self-worship. But we have no Irish fairy tales to help us. Only bullets.

French Pianist Friday Evening at Civic Auditorium

Unusual interest is being shown in the long looked forward to recital of Robert Casadesus, French pianist, in the civic auditorium, San Jose this Friday night, March 12, at 8:15. Casadesus is said to "play like a god," to have no equal at the keyboard today. His virtuosity, poetic fervor, limpid tone and effortless ease of playing have thrilled his audiences to exciting levels.

Casadesus' program includes Six sonatas, Scarlatti: Papillons, Schumann; Berceuse, Chopin; Ballade, Op. 23, Chopin; Prelude, Chorale and Fugue, Caesar Franck; Jeux d'eau; Forlane, Ravel; Toccata, Ravel.

Yehudi Menuhin will close the San Jose musical season on April 9.

Jack Murdock Injured Sunday

Jack Murdock came off second best when he and a toboggan parted company on a hill at Long Barn Sunday, Jack landing in a creek bed with a cracked rib, and impacted fracture of his left wrist and thumb.

He considers himself very fortunate as none of his injuries is very painful nor will be long in healing, and he is his usual cheerful self.

He was one of a party that included Mr. and Mrs. LBen Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Becker and Mrs. Murdock, who went to Long Barn Friday evening for the week-end. The accident occurred about 10 o'clock and after administering first aid the party returned to San Jose where x-rays were taken and the injuries attended to.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"The Human Comedy" by William Saroyan.

Are you war weary? Is your head buzzing with radio reports given by experienced commentators who "analyze" the news? Be comforted, for a book has been written and wise publishers have printed it, and it is available and will give you relief.

William Saroyan has written his first novel. Other literary achievements of his have doubtless been enjoyed by you: "My Name is Aram" for one, and timely essays and highly successful plays, for others. "The Human Comedy" is a series of incidents in the life of a small boy. Without very much insight into the author's life, immediately you will see him as "Homer," the Postal Telegraph messenger, in the book. In fact the book is Homer, his tragedies and his pleasures, as well as his "Comedy."

The story is set in the California town of Ithaca, and the time is the present. He is the older boy of his family, there being a younger brother and an older sister. His fathis dead, and Homer assumes the mastership of the household, for he is now fourteen years old.

This is a simple story. There is nothing unusual about the plot or the theme but there is everything unusual about the way the author has told his tale. The family is not unusual, nor are the happenings that occur to various members unusual. I believe it is the circumstances which color each occasion that make the book a gem. And it is the point of view from which the story is told that lends sweetness, beauty and elegance to the humanness of it all.

When you are fortunate enough to be able to read the book, please do not neglect to read Mr. Saroyan's dedication. You will feel all warm and good inside after you have read it.

Fuel Oil Shortage

The present fuel oil shortage will last the duration. Now the shortage which requires rationing in 30 states is due to transportation difficulties, but an actual shortage of fuel itself is foreseen by government petroleum experts. The campaign to induce homeowners to convert to coal is nation-wide in proportion. Now the campaign is voluntary, but may later be compulsory. Coal is the most plentiful and economical fuel.

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBB

The Kink in Mr. Jones

By IRVIN S. COBB

MR. JONES was one of those nervous persons inclined to hypochondria. His imagination, from time to time, afflicted him with maladies which never really materialized. Nevertheless, his devoted wife continued to share his apprehensions at each fresh alarm.

One afternoon long before his usual hour for returning from business he fell into the house. His face was white as chalk, and in his eyes was a stricken look. He bent forward. He tottered to a chair, and, still curled into a half-moon shape, dropped into it.

"Maria," he gasped, "it's come at last! I'll never be a well man again!"

"Merciful Heavens!" she cried, "Henry, what has happened!"

"There was no warning," he said. "All of a sudden, awhile ago, I found I couldn't straighten up. I can't lift my head. I feel all drawn."

"Is there any pain?" she asked, fluttering about in her distress.

"No," he said, there's no pain—that's what makes me think it must be paralysis. Run for the doctor!"

She ran. She tottered in a few minutes, bringing with her the family physician. She ushered him into the room where the sufferer was and waited at the door, wringing her hands and dreading the worst.

Almost immediately the physician emerged. He had his face in his hands and his shoulders heaved as though under the stress of an uncontrollable emotion.

"Oh, doctor," cried the agonized Mrs. Jones," is there any hope for him?"

"Well, Madam," he said, "it'll help a good deal if he'll unhitch the third button of his vest from the top button of his trousers."

Cattle Grubs Controlled

These pests are the young stage of the heel fly. They usually appear on the backs of cattle about this time of the year and cause considerable irritation by cutting holes in the hide. If grubs are present the treatment of cattle with a powder made by mixing one part 5 per cent rotenone content derris or cube powder and two parts of wittable sulphur is recommended. Apply to the backs of the animals from a shaker can and rub in lightly with the hand.

Wife of Former Publisher Dies in Pacific Grove

Funeral services were held from the Methodist church in Pacific Grove Saturday for Mary Blaine Hurlburt, 73, sister of Justice John D. Blaine.

The Blaine family came to Campbell in 1887 from Lincoln, Ill., and established their home on a ranch on Hamilton avenue, which is now part of the Ainsley properties on that road.

She was married here to Elgin C. Hurlburt on July 12, 1893. Hurlbert edited the Campbell paper, known then as "The Visitor" which Franklin Blaine, brother of John D., and Worthin Williams had established.

He also had a job printing plant in San Jose, but in 1909 the Hurlbert's moved to Pacific Grove where he had a newspaper and later became city clerk, which position he has held for seven years.

Mrs. Hurlbert, then Miss Mary Blaine was one of the charter members of the Campbell Methodist church and both she and her husband were members of the choir of their church in Pacific Grove. The full choir was in attendance at the services to sing her favorite hymns.

She leaves, in addition to her husband and brother, a son, Lieut.-Comdr. Elgin Blaine Hurlbert, former San Jose business man and naval reserve member who is a survivor of the sinking of the Yorktown. She also leaves a daughter, Elmarie Hurlbert Dyke, a rural school supervisor for Monterey county and a summer school instructor at San Jose State college. There are four grandchildren, Nelson William Hyler and Robert Elgin Hyler, both in the navy, and Jerry and Jean Hurlbert of Pacific Grove.

Schools Open Drive To Buy 10,000 Jeeps

THE little jeep which is serving so nobly from Guadalcanal to Africa has become the symbol of the gigantic efforts of millions of American school children in their War Savings program.

Thousands of public, private and parochial schools soon will be displaying a certificate of honor from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., signifying that they have paid for at least one jeep by buying $900 in War Stamps and Bonds.

Countless others will be flying the Schools At War banner awarded to schools with 90 percent pupil participation in War Savings.

Ten thousand jeeps and a hundred bombers! This is the new goal of America's schools as 30,000,000 children continue their Schools At War program under the auspices of the Treasury Department and the U. S. Office of Education.

Results so far in the program reported by Dr. Homer W. Anderson, Associate Field Director in charge of the education section of the War Savings Staff, are:

Battle Flags of the Schools

More than 7,000,000 elementary and high school students from 30,000 schools have prepared special Schools At War scrapbooks for state and local exhibits.

War Stamp and War Bond purchases may reach a grand total of $300,000,000 for the school year.

Rosebud

Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mammy and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devil-child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mammy had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew, just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restful occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mammy was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mammy's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mammy and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfas Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mammy. "I declare you're an angel child," Mammy said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mammy was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mammy forgot about her until, coming in from the yard with her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Scenting the devil in her angel child, Mammy shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come yere with that hammer! What you planning on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mammy," she said. "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

An average of 435 passenger trains are delayed a total of 200 hours each month by grade crossing accidents. Illustrated here is a typical case which helps build those monthly totals.

The truck was struck by a passenger train at a crossing protected by flashing light signals, which were functioning. The truck was thrown clear of the tracks, striking and breaking a telegraph pole and an electric power control box. Although the truck driver had defective hearing, he was familiar with the crossing.

The engine was damaged and it was necessary to cut out one Pullman car due to flat wheels.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these accidents, which every day delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a big blow to the nation's war transportation effort.

Driver carelessness is the cause of almost all these accidents, according to the Council. To help win the war—to save yourself and others needless suffering — the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before starting to cross.

Keith Wilson Wins Title in Wrestling

Keith Wilson, Buccaneer wrestler, won the heavyweight title of the league on Feb. 20 by easily defeating Bento of San Jose Tech in a meet held in San Jose.

Schools competing in the meet were San Jose High, Tech, Santa Clara, Sequoia, Hayward, and Campbell. The Bucs were represented by Hall, Ragus, Hutchinson, Jarrel, Osteen, Guardino, and Wilson. These boys showed the same spirit and fight which has been outstanding at all the meets they have participated in.

Osteen won his first event by pinning his oponent in 59 seconds. However, because of an injured ankle and knee he was forced to withdraw from a second match. Hall and Jarrel won their first matches but lost in the quarter final. Guardino, a newcomer to the Campbell squad, made a good showing, and Ragus is aso to be commended on his participation in a very close match.

This is Campbells first meet since Coach Jack McKune has been in charge. A meet was held here yesterday, just too late to meet Campus Echos' deadline.

Seen on the campus last week was Phil Nelson, U. S. Navy, now a seaman, second class, home on leave. Recently stationed in Texas, he has been transferred to San Francisco, where he will take his final exams for radioman.

Phil praised the navy highly and had many interesting stories to tell his friends.

Lieut. Stallman Reported Missing

Relatives and friends who shortly ago were rejoicing over the feats of Lieut. George E. Stallman were saddened to learn that his mother was notified that he was missing in an air raid over Europe the night of Feb. 26. This was the date of the raid on Wilhelmshaven.

Lieut Stallman had won commendation from high ranking American and British air force officers for his success in accounting for at least four Nazi planes and for successfully bringing his bomber back after a raid with its engines disabled; part of its tail missing and 37 feet of fuselage riddled by gunfire.

His mother, Mrs. G. E. Stallman of San Jose and sister, Miss Josephine Stallman, a member of the health department of San Jose State college can find some solace in his glorious record, and hope that somehow the "missing" may not mean "lost."

Sailors Sentenced By O'Connor

Two of the three sailors who were convicted of administering a severe beating to Burton Dampier, a Campbell fisherman, early this month, were sentenced in Judge Percy O'Connor's court yesterday.

Valentine Lozaro admitted he had hit Dampier from behind with a heavy instrument. He was given a 90 day jail sentence. His companion, John J. Henzel, who it appeared had not started the battle was given 60 days.

Both were scored roundly by the judge for bringing disgrace to their service, and arousing distrust in the civilian population, who want to be helpful and friendly to service men.

The third member of the trio was certified to the juvenile court when he was found to be only 16 although in the navy.
